

Devon Young

Dental Researcher

(123) 456-7890 • City, ST 12345 • email@example.com

Dental Researcher advancing clinical outcomes through evidence-based studies
PhD-level Dental Researcher with 11 years of experience leading studies on oral systemic health, material durability, and public health outcomes. Strong record of publishing in peer-reviewed journals and presenting at conferences.

Professional Experience

Senior Dental Researcher, National Oral Health Institute, Bethesda, MD

April 2018 – Present

- Led a multi-year study on the impact of periodontal disease on cardiovascular health involving 2,000 participants
- Authored 10 peer-reviewed papers, including a study cited in ADA policy discussions
- Managed IRB compliance and participant recruitment across five states

Research Associate, Georgetown University Dental Research Center, Washington, D.C.

August 2014 – March 2018

- Conducted lab testing on biomaterials used in crowns and bridges
- Analyzed failure rates of composite resins under stress conditions
- Co-authored abstracts presented at the International Association for Dental Research

Education

Georgetown University | Washington, D.C.

Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in Oral Biology

May 2014

University of Maryland | Baltimore, MD

Doctor of Dental Surgery (DDS)

May 2010

Key Skills

- Clinical Trials Coordination
- Grant Writing
- Research Ethics Compliance
- Data Collection and Analysis
- Literature Reviews
- Scientific Publication